Just off the Arc de Triomphe at 37 avenue de Friedland in the Paris 8th, Boum Boum hosted Elements Jazz across two Thursday nights in December 2019. Both evenings were booked as a private Filorga Christmas celebration, and the band kept the room warm with swinging standards and a bright latin-jazz lilt drawn from the group's working book.

The core trio brought pianist and bandleader Arnaud Quercy together with Elliot Langlois on double bass and Romain Courty on drums – described in the captions as Quercy's all-time buddies. Guest guitarist Elliot Stolz joined them, threading single-line solos through the holiday set. Tucked behind the Champs-Élysées, the engagement was an intimate, festive one-off rather than a standing residency, with the quartet leaning on swing and latin jazz to match the celebratory mood.
