Elements Jazz played a private party at Brumaire in the Parc de Saint-Cloud, west of Paris — a quartet, a great crowd, and an on-request set of jazz standards.

Set in the leafy Parc de Saint-Cloud just west of Paris, Brumaire hosted a private party that turned into one of the band's most interactive nights. Elements Jazz played as a quartet — Arnaud Quercy on piano, Pierre-Alexis Courty on guitar, Elliot Langlois on double bass and Romain Courty on drums — for a warm, enthusiastic crowd that got so into it the band took requests, giving over a whole set to the songs the guests called out. Swing, latin jazz and a handful of crowd favourites under the trees of one of the most beautiful parks near the capital: a relaxed, made-to-measure private event.
