Huge crowd, great vibe: that was the gang back at Salle Wagram, the storied avenue de Wagram hall in Paris's 17th arrondissement. Across 2019 and into 2021, Elements Jazz turned this grand room into a swing-driven party space, entertaining mega private events with the band's signature take on the jazz tradition. The core trio carried the night, Arnaud Quercy on piano, Elliot Langlois on double bass and Jeremy Quentin on guitar, locking into a buoyant, dancing groove.

For these galas the quartet welcomed guest drummer Aurelien Sprogis, whose brushwork and kick lifted the standards repertoire from easy swing into full-tilt momentum. Played as a string of one-off private celebrations rather than a fixed residency, the Wagram nights leaned into bright, crowd-pleasing classics from the swing songbook, the kind of timeless material that fills a high-ceilinged Parisian ballroom with warmth and motion.
